
Lines fit observable activation scales; they are not microscopic coupling constants.